THE IDEA OF A PERSONAL GOD.

THIS WAS THE FIRST THOUGHT IMPLANTED IN MAN'S MIND.

In a Sermon Yesterday Dr. Kilgo Defends the Idea of the Orthordox God Who Sends Rain When His Children Ask for it, and Points Out the Danger of Modern Thought—Christian Faith the Highest Impulse Known to Humanity—Science Cannot Write One Syllogism that Expresses a Fact of Christian Experience.

Rev. John C. Kilgo, D. D., President of Trinity College, preached in West Market Methodist church yesterday morning. His subject was a "Personal God," and the preliminary scripture read was the seventy-third Psalm, herewith quoted:

1 Truly God is good to Israel, even to such as are of a clean heart

2 But as for me, my feet were almost gone; my steps had well nigh slipped.

3 For I was envious at the foolish, when I saw the prosperity of the wicked.

4 For there are no bands in their death; but their strength is firm.

5 They are not in trouble as other men; neither are they plagued like other men.

6 Therefore pride compasseth them about as a chain; violence covereth them as a garment.

7 Their eyes stand out with fatness; they have more than heart could wish.

8 They are corrupt, and speak wickedly concerning oppression, they speak loftily.

9 They set their mouth against the heavens, and their tongues walketh through the earth.

10 Therefore his people return hither; and waters of a full cup are wrung out to them.

11 And they say, how doth God know? and is there knowledge in the Most High?

12 Behold, these are the ungodly, who pro-per in the world; they increase in riches.

13 Verily I have cleansed my heart in vain, and washed my hands in innocency.

14 For all the day long have I been plagued, and chastened every morning.

15 If I say, I will speak thus; behold, I should offend against the generation of thy children.

16 When I thought to know this, it was too painful for me;

17 Until I went into the sanctuary of God; then understood I their end.

18 Surely thou didst set them in slippery places; thou castedst them down into destruction.

19 How are they brought into desolation, as in a moment! they are utterly consumed with terrors.

20 As a dream when one awaketh; so, O Lord when thou awakest, thou shalt despise their image.

21 Thus my heart was grieved, and I was pricked in my reins

22 So foolish was I, and ignorant; I was as a beast before thee.

23 Nevertheless I am continually with thee; thou hast holden me by my right hand.

24 Thou shalt guide me with thy counsel, and afterward receive me to glory.

25 Whom have I in heaven but thee? and there is none on earth that I desire besides thee.

26 My flesh and my heart faileth; but God is the strength of my heart, and my portion for ever.

27 For lo, they that are far from thee shall perish; thou hast destroyed all them that go a whoring from thee.

28 But it is good for me to draw near to God: I have put my trust in the Lord God, that I may declare all thy works.

"Christian faith," said the speaker, "is founded in a personal God. The first great thought that Moses sought to put into the minds of men was that of a great personality, which personality was the explanation of all things. He sought to impress the Creator, not the created. The whole universe had a setting in a personal God. He did not attempt to give any other explanation, but God was a sufficient source and cause of creation, so he began by saying merely that God created all things. The idea was exemplified by God's dealings with the Jews throughout their entire history, and the explanation of the history of that nation lies in the fact that it could never have been wrought by an impersonal God. The God whom Abraham obeyed was a God who could talk and think, and the great object was to keep Abraham conscious of a personal God.

"The object of Israel's history was to maintain a God-consciousness, and the loss of that God-consciousness or the intensity of that consciousness measure her progress or her retrogression. It reached its highest mark when the sensitive David was on the throne He filled Israel full of songs, and every song signalized the presence of God. But when Solomon came to the throne he tried to run Israel on a basis of wisdom. The nation was filled with epigrams, and it never recovered from the mistakes of Solomon's wisdom.

"God has never let any thing or any body go ahead of Him. When, through His Son, he revealed himself in human form to man, He ever kept the divine side ahead, therefore the attempt to put the human side of Christ in advance is a mistake. In all the disgrace and infamy heaped upon the humanity of Christ His divinity stood out and above all in its fullness and completeness.

"All our Christian life depends upon the recognition of a personal God, and when that consciousness is forgotten there is a period of backsliding. All the books that have ever been written have never so marshaled the facts of the problem of evil as this Psalm. Today there are assembled all over this country anarchists who declare that there is no God. They say that there cannot be, else he would not allow suffering and want beside plenty Right here lies the danger in modern thought if there be any. Modern scientific thought does away with a personal God and offers before us a blind force that is a crushing fatality, and they would project the whole organization of society upon these lines and entirely ignore a personal God.

"Just now I was talking with an intelligent, educated man. I asked him if he believed in praying for rain. No, he did not. He believed that there were established laws of heat, cold and moisture, and that by these rain came in its due course. Then he asked what I thought of praying for rain. I believe in it for two reasons. God is either able or not able to send rain. If he is not able, I should be stricken with fear to think that so weak a God was driving the reins of the universe, and I shoul tremble lest He let the flying orbs of the heavens clash together and destroy us all. I want no such puny, weak God. Secondly, if He is able to send rain and will not, He is a merciless God and unfit to be the ruler of a fine, sensitive nature like mine. You can't build a god on Voltaire's idea It insults every instinct of our natures We must have a thinking, acting, feeling, working God who comes down and puts his life into the universe, and delegates his power to no force and to nobody.

"We have built up a system of ologies as high as the steeple of this house, our Bible has ceased to be light and life and has become logic, and if there is anything logic cannot do, it is to put into a syllogism one single fact of Christian experience. According to this system, which ignores a personal God, men had as well cease to pray. By it they do not pray to be heard. Prayer becomes a kind of psychological gymnastic, a good thing to be at to keep us soft, and so we men turn the work of prayer over to the women. If that is all there is in prayer, it is a waste of time. When Elijah stood for three years waiting for rain, and the parching, blistering, sands cried out for it, he prayed to a personal god, and he knew no way in the universe to obtain rain but by appealing to Him. No man who has not a deep need in his life and a serious consciousness of God ought to be praying. No man ought to be intruding mere meaningless words upon a high thinking and feeling God.

"Another serious danger lies in the change of ground which we have made for doing right. A preacher delivered a sermon saying that, putting aside all hope of heaven and the existence of God, it was best for one to live according to the Bible, as it would make him honored, respected and beloved, and successful. How absurd! Why, if there is no personal God there is no right and wrong. There is a great deal of talk about the ultimate grounds of truth. All such will do for a high strung and high sounding infidelity. But all rules of right get their authority over your conscience and over mine because God sits yonder with his

BOERS OFFER TO SURRENDER

A COMMANDANT WANTS TO TREAT WITH KITCHENER.

Says He Will Surrender—Dewet Has Been Routed but Made His Escape—The Coils Tighter and Tighter.

By Wire to The Telegram.

Cape Town, Feb. 25.—It is reported than an influential commandant, Piet Fourie, with several hundred Boers of the Dewetsdorp district is willing to surrender if the commandant receives a proposition direct from Lord Kitchener.

Dewet Escapes.

Associated Press in Charlottee Observer.

London, Feb 25.—A correspondent of The Daily Mail, with Henniker's column, wiring Saturday, says: "General Dewet was routed yesterday by Colonel Plumer, with whom were Colonels Henniker, Craddock, Jeffrys and Grabo. This success was preceded by a series of desperate attempts on the part of the Boers to escape from the water belt of the Orange and the Brakey rivers. General Dewet, after unsuccessfully attempting to cross the Brakey at Klip drift, and the Orange at Reid's drift and Mark's drift, moved along the bank of the Orange with one gun and one pompom and laagered opposite Kameel drift. At dawn Colonel Plumer left Welgevordon, 22 miles west of the Boer camp, and moved northest. At Zenurga. they attacked the enemy, taking 40 prisoners. The pursuit was continued during the afternoon, the Boers moving toward Hopetown. Toward evening the leading troops sighted the enemy, who had laagered beyond gun range. Colonel Owen charged to spot where the Boer artillery was supposed to be, and captured the whole of it. The enemy fled, leaving their horses ready saddled and their cooking pools full. According to the latest reports only 400 Boers re-crossed to the north side of the river. The Orange is greatly swollen."

Kennedy Discharged.

By Wire to The Telegram.

New York, Feb 25.—District Attorney Philbin this morning said he would not oppose a motion for Kennedy's discharge on his own recognizance, and Kennedy's lawyers declare they would make such a motion later today. Philbin further said it would be useless to put the State to the expense of a third trial, in view of the jury's disagreement.

Strung Him Up.

By Wire to The Telegram.

Matawan, N. J., Feb. 25.—Charles Herbert, a resident of this town, was twice hanged by the neck last night by excited citizens because he was suspected of having set an incendiary fire. He persisted in asserting his innocence, and on being let down the second time, the crowd contented itself with having him locked up in jail.

Saloon Smasher Shot.

By Wire to The Telegram.

Topeka, Feb. 25.—J. W. Adams was fatally wounded during a raid on Curtis' wholesale liquor house at midnight. A carload of beer had been unloaded during the day and about 50 men armed with sledges and revolvers broke open the door and smashed the cases. Adams says he was shot by a policeman. Rev. F. W. Elerson was also hurt but not seriously.

The Old and the New.

Dr. J. E. Wyche, who some months ago purchased the Judge Dillard place on West Gaston street, has begun tearing away the old dwelling, and as soon as this is done will begin the erection of a nice eight-room, modern house. When the steps were torn away Dr. Wyche found a very interesting letter, of September 20, 1857, from Jno. D L. Peatros, of Virginia, seeking advice from Thos. Martin, Esq., of Stokes county, regarding the collecting of some money due for the hire of some negroes who had been taken out of the State contrary to law.

Miss Elsie Weatherly is violin soloist for the concert at the Academy Friday night, March 1st. Miss Weatherly is the best lady violinist in town, and it will be quite a treat to hear her. So come.

TRIBUTE TO CAPT. WARD.

The Brave Seaman was a North Carolinian by Adoption.

Captain William Ward, of the Rio de Janeiro, which went down in the harbor of San Francisco last Friday, has two brothers in Raleigh, who are well to-do men and highly esteemed. He called that place his home. Mr. I. E Avery, of the Charlotte Observer, pays thes tribute to Capt. Ward:

"An Observer man knew intimately Capt William Ward, of the Rio de Janiero, and crossed the Pacific with him in '94, when he was in command of the China, of the Pacific Mail Line. His mother and other relatives lived in Raleigh and in recent years he visited that city several times He drifted to 'Frisco years ago, shipped on a sailing vessel, went into the Pacific Mail service and worked his way up from the mast. He was only about 42 years old and was unmarried. Prior to the shipwreck that cost him his life he had never had an accident at sea and was one of the most capable as well as one of the most be oved skippers on the Pacific Ocean. He was a very handsome distinguished looking man, notable either in rough weather togs or dress clothes. Thousands who have made the long journey with him across the Southern Pacific remember his thoughtfulness, carefulness and personal attraction. The road across the pacific he knew by heart, and with the pride that was ever with him, it is easy to understand why he preferred to die when his vessel sank close to a harbor, even though one of his company's pilots was in charge of the boat. He loved his ship; all men who knew him said that of Ward. Her death meant his death, of course There are brave, bright souls like that who sail the seas.

SHOT AT HIS WIFE.

The Sunday Morning Escapade of a Drunken Doctor—The Doctor in Jail.

About 2 o'clock yesterday morning the people in the vicinity of the Normal College were aroused by the piercing screams of a woman for help. They discovered that on Saturday night one Dr. Byers, who lives on Lithia street, near the railroad, had gone home much the worse for liquor. After being there for some time he began to have a desire for more liquor, and as he had no money, he called on his wife to give him some, This she refused to do, whereupon the doctor threatened her, saying that he would shoot her if she did not give him money. Mrs. Byers still refusing to comply with his request, the man got his pistol and began blazing away at her. As a result of his mauldin condition his aim was so poor that he failed to hit his wife. Mrs. Byers ran screaming from the house, and standing out in the snow, with which the ground was covered, she alarmed the neighborhood. When her husband began shooting, her first thought was of self-preservation, and not until she reached the yard did she remember that her little children were in the house at the mercy of the crazed man. But she dared not return to protect her children lest her own life be taken. Fortunately the children all ran upstairs and locked themselves in a room.

A phone message was sent for a policeman and Officer Jeffries went out and brought Byers in and lodged him in jail. The man is said to spend the most of his time away from home, travelling as an "eye doctor."

THE SENATE FIXES THE DAY.

IMPEACHMENT TRIAL TO BEGIN MARCH ELEVENTH.

Judges Are Allowed to March 6th to File Answers—So Long as the Senate Sits as a Court the Members Will be Paid $ Per Day.

Special Dispatch to The Telegram.

Raleigh, Feb. 25.—At twelve thirty the Senate organized as a court of impeachment, having adopted rules, and all the senators, clerks and stenographers were sworn in.

The managers of the impeachment and two of their counsel came in and took seats. They requested that summons for the Judges be immediately entered. The Court so ordered and the President issued it returnable at one fifteen o'clock.

At the latter time the counsel for the defense entered, Hon. T. J. Jarvis, F. I. Osborne, W. P. Bynum, F. H. Busbee, and B. F. Long. Gov. Jarvis said the Judges were here present by their counsel, and that two of their counsel, C. M. Cooke and Lindsay Patterson had not yet arrived. He asked that the Judges he given till March 6th to file answer, and that the trial be commenced March 11.

Senator Morrison offered a resolution that the Judges be allowed until March 6th to file answer and that the impeachment managers be then allowed three days to fill application and that the trial begin March 11th. The resolution was unanimously adopted.

Rountree on the part of the managers announced that all their counsel were not present and that they would have additional counsel to be announced in due time.

During these ceremonies the Senate Chamber was packed with spectators.

A resolution was introduced in the Senate providing that whenever it sits as a court of impeachment other than during the regular sixty days, the members shall receive four dollars per day for each day it may be in session.

The sessions of the House and Senate were uninteresting. The House passed the insurance bill.

AS CARRIE WOULD RUN IT.

While in Jail She Utters Threats Against the Men Folks.

By Wire to The Telegram.

Topeka, Feb. 25.—Mrs. Nation has been released from jail on bond. At 5 o'clock this morning she left for Peoria to act as editor of the Peoria Journal for one day.

Topeka, Kan., Feb. 24.—Mrs. Carrie Nation, tiring of jail life, has written Judge Hazen a letter demanding release. "I want you to quit your fooling," she writes, and "let me out of here. If you cause me to miss my engagements I won't feel like a ministering angel unto you. It is time for you to recover yourself before the devil, your master, makes a clean sweep with you into hell. You know you are persecuting one of God's children who loves you for Jesus' sake. Let me out that I may go about my business of saving such poor devils as you. Write or come to see me right off."

Judge Hazen has ignored the letter, placing it in the waste basket with dozens of others received on the subject from different parts of the country. Some of these letters threaten the judge. One from Bunker Hill, Kan., says a committee of 50 will administer a coat of tar and featers to the officials if Mrs. Nation is not released by February 27, and another from a woman in Douglas, Mich., says: "We now propose, if Mrs. Nation is held longer, to raise the geratest army of women the world has ever known and wipe man out of existence. It is our intention to begin with you."

Civil cases were taken up by the court this morning. The case of Strafford against the city was continued.

THE FIRST BROKEN LINK IN THE JUNIORS

The Order of Buffaloes Crowing at High Point --Effect of the Sunday School Convention.

Correspondence of The Telegram.

High Point, Feb. 25—The funeral services over the remains of Mr. Griffin G. Burns were held at the house yesterday afternoon at two o'clock, conducted by Rev. Dr. J. B. Richardson, of the Baptist church. Members of the Junior O. U. A. M., and Knights of Pythias, of which the deceased was a member, turned out in a body to show their last mark of respect to their deceased brother. At the grave the burial services of the Junior order was read by Rev. W. H. Roach, concluded ing with those of the Knights of Pythias conducted by Prof. Jno. W. Wilborn. The funeral was largely attended.

The Junior order of this place has been organized nearly six years, having at present 150 beneficiary members and in the death of Mr. Burns this makes the first broken link in its chain of brotherhood.

The daughter of Mr. Wm. Stamey died here Saturday right of tonsilitis.

A telegram was received here Saturday night, from Salisbury, by Chief of Police Bennett, requesting that he arrest a party on a serious charge, but as no name was attached to the message, and as Mr. Bennett could not get further information from a telegram to that town the matter was dropped as far as he was concerned.

The popular and unique order of "Buffaloes" is receiving recruits so fast in this place that it begins to look as if the whole town will become full-fledged members.

High Point Steam Laundry, under new management, began work this morning Mr. Fred Ingram will have charge of the business

The High Point Kitchen and Table Co., is a new enterprise on a small scale, for this place. The company makes patent kitchen safes. Mr Garland is manager.

The plant of the High Point Ice and Coal Company is being pushed to completion and by the latter part of next month the company expect to occupy permanent quarters.

The great Sunday School Convention has just closed at High Point and the International Committee, Profs. H. M. Hamill, Marion Lawrence, E. O. Excell and B. W. Spillman and their wives have gone to Newbury, S. C., on their trans-continental tour.

Their presence and work stirred High Point from centre to circumfrence Enthusiasm ran high and great crowds gathered at every session.

One of the main features of interest was the magnificent singing led by Prof Excell. He used his latest publication, "Make His Praise Glorious," and with the support of the church organ and a very fine piano tendered the convention by Mr. J. B. Wright, of Greensboro, the music that filled the air was glorious.

It is conceeded that the convention, by far, was the best in the history of State conventions The great number of delegates and workers go back to their work filled with enthusiam and determination to do more efficient work than before.

The new life that has been put into the Sunday School workers will advance the cause in the State and next year when the convention meets at Fayettville a larger delegation of Sunday School workers are looked for.

NO RIGHT TO UGLINESS

The woman who is lovely in face form and temper will always have friends, but one who would be attractive must keep her health. If she is weak, sickly and run down, she will be nervous and irritable. If she has constipation or kidney trouble, her impure blood will cause pimples blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. Electric bitters is the best medicine in the world to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to purify the blood. It gives strong nerves, bright eyes, smooth, velvety skin, rich complexion. It will make a good-looking, charming woman of a run-down invalid. Only 50 cents at C. E Holton's drug store.

Correspondence of The Telegram.

We have been the recipient of many courtesies as a correspondent (for two of the best dailies in the State), by our friend Morris of the Messenger, an up-to-date weekly published in this thriving little city. The circulation of the Messenger is a sufficient guarantee of its truthfulness and other excellencies, and we congratulate our B other "Chip" on his subscription list of 1500 and bespeak for the paper the continued confidence of the public and a big increase of subscribers. The Messenger is a warm friend of The Telegram, advocating its claims at all times as one of the foremost dailies in the State with stalwart proportions and a coming importance in the journalistic world second to none.

The second point of interest is the Hotel Chatham, presid d over by the kind friend, polished gentleman, and his lovely and accomplished wife, Captain Cabiness, and honor to his profession and State—Old Virginia. We, as a newspaper man, can safely say that we have never before, throughout the entire State, (We've made the tour many times in the interest of our own paper, and others, and know whereof we speak), been treated with elegant courtesy, than while guesting at the Hotel Chatham.

We propose giving this pushing little embryo a thorough write up in the near future. We find a marked leaning to the daily Telegram, and while advocating its claims as a first class daily, we feel assured that true merit will take precedence and that the young fledgling, The Greensboro Telegram will be rewarded and take its place, as one of our highly prized and leading journals.

DIAMOND.

A powerful engine cannot be run with a weak boiler, and we can't keep up the strain of an active life with a weak stomach; neither can we stop the human machine to make repairs. If the stomach cannot digest enough food to keep the body strong, such a preparation as Kodol Dyspepsia Cure should be used. It digests what you eat and it simply can't help but do you good. MONDAY, FEBRUARY 25.

THE BIGGEST YET.

This morning the New York Herald made the following announcement:

The steel combination plan was consummated at a conference in J. P. Morgan's office, late Saturday afternoon. An official announcement may be expected Monday. The Carnegie Company, Federal Steel, National Tube, American Steel and Wire, American Tin Plate, National Steel, American Steel Hoop Company and the Sheet Steel Companies are to be combined in one concern, which is to issue its stock in return for theirs, the valuation having been determined upon the assets and the earning power of the respective corporations thus merged.

It is understood that it will be called the United States Consolidated Steel Company. It will have a total capitalization of $1,100,000 000. Of this $300,000,000 will be 5 per cent general mortgage bonds, $400,000 000 will be 7 per cent. stock, and $400,000,000 will be common stock. The charter will be filed, it is said, at Trenton, N. J., today (Monday).

The most significant thing about trusts that has come out in some time is that they are showing a disposition to cry, like the Macedonian warrior, for more worlds to conquer. A recent number of Puck had a two-page illustration representing this idea. It represented John D. Rockefeller as a king wearing a huge crown. The first circlet of the crown represented the Standard Oil Company, and topping that several railroad and kindred interests.

Take the case of J. P Morgan & Company. At first, we believe, they were bankers only; then they began on railroads, and assumed a dominant position there; then the coal fields fell into their hand only recently, and now the huge steel interest of the country is in their possession, to say nothing of other things. Where will it stop?

We rather regret that Sister Nation is so hard down on the man tribe. The sister would perhaps take it as an offense if one were to class her with women in general and therby imply that she is no better than the average run, yet the good sister threatens to sweep all men off the face of the earth because some of us—between us we admit a good many of us—are bad. The sister is even rougher on the men than on the plate glass.

THE IDEA OF A PERSONAL GOD

hand on the universe. There is no use speculating and talking, the only thing for man to do is to obey and accept the consequences.

"A prating infidelity tells us that if the Sermon on the Mount were obeyed it would be very striking and be sufficient This skepticism teaches us to accept those tenets and to leave out all of the Bible teachings which cannot be adjusted to our ethical sense. Christian faith is what supplies what we do not understand. It is the highest impulse known to humanity.

"I remember distinctly when I last preached in this church. I said, standing by the bier of that good man whom we laid away, that that man made God a reality. Behind him and towering above him always stood God. He, like the old prophets, did not go up and down the country talking for the mere pleasure of the people, for they were there because God sent them. I want no better God than my mother's God. She was a country girl and had a country God. She saw Him in the beautiful flowers, she saw Him behind the thundering clouds and saw Him as the sender of the rain and the sunshine, and when she went to church she expected to meet Him there. When she grew up and had children she pointed each to a personal God who heard and answered prayer and who was the friend in need. Don't mistake law for personality, and don't project your life outside of God."

FEMININE LOVE OF JEWELS.

Women of All Countries and of All Ages Have Been Dazzled by Gems.

Women of all countries have an inherent love for precious stones, which are supposed to exercise some subtle magnetism upon their natures. Hence the latter-day craze for some mascotic jewel, a survival of medieval superstition. Upon impressionable people certain gems appear to wield a potent influence. Who has not listened to weird tales of some heirloom talisman which, when lost or stolen, presaged the ruin of a noble house? A person with a vivid imagination might even believe in the theory of the Pythagoreans, who formulated the doctrine that inanimate as well as animate things are endowed with souls. Certain evolutionists of to-day trace the origin of man back to stones, asserting that in their adamantine bosoms they contain the all-pervading essence of spirit, and that the spark emitted from their crystalline hearts is the revelation of the imprisoned soul within.

From time immemorial jewels have served as propitiary offerings at holy shrines, as tokens of amity from one crowned head to another, as mystic messengers of affection between distant friends, as pledges of constancy exchanged between plighted lovers. Men have bled and died, kingdoms have crumbled, families have been rent asunder, husband and wife parted over the disputed possession of some coveted jewel. Perhaps poor Marie Antoinette, of ill-starred memory, might have kept her pretty head upon her shoulders had it not been for the unfortunate affair of the diamond necklace. Women in all ages have succumbed to the temptation of gems. Faust bartered his soul for the love of a woman; Marguerite sold hers for a gem-starred bauble.

OVERCROWDED LONDON.

The English Metropolis Is Suffering from a Dearth of Houses—Rents Going Up.

At the present moment, writes Sir Walter Besant in the Century, those parts of East London inhabited by the workingmen of all kinds, from the respectable artisan in steady employment down to the casual hand and the children of the street, are suffering from the dearth of houses. There are not enough houses for the people; there are not enough single rooms for the families which would gladly occupy them, if they could. The rents of the lowest tenements are going up higher and higher. The working people compete with one another for rooms. The landlord has only to put up his house, or his rooms in his house, to the highest bidder. A room that used to be let for four shillings a week can now command six, while the fine, or the sum paid on taking the key, which was formerly a few shillings, now runs up to a pound or even two. The houseless used to be considered the very poorest. Among them now are families where the head is in good work. They are houseless because there are no houses for them. The vast increase of population has a good deal to do with this. For instance, the outlying suburb of East Ham, 20 years ago a mere hamlet with a few houses and an old church in the fields, now numbers 90,000 people, all of the working class; while its neighbor, West Ham, which 20 years ago consisted of two or three scattered hamlets, is now a great town of 270,000 people, all of the working class.

A "STRENUOUS" HEN.

This One Sat on Her Nest in a Threshing Machine While It Was in Operation.

The grittiest hen in America lives in Alsea, Ore. Her right to be called brave has been tested, and, says the Corvallis Times, she is not only a brave hen, but a "strenuous" hen.

She belongs to one of the Hayden brothers. They also own a threshing machine, which was taken out of the shed for the first time last week, and a small field of grain was threshed to see that the machine was in good running order.

After the job was finished the machine was returned to the shed, when, to the amazement of all, there in the corner of the separator sat the strenuous hen.

Under her was a nest of eggs that she was endeavoring to hatch. She had been on the nest when the machine was taken out.

She was there when the belts and pulleys began to whiz, when the fan began to sing, and when the riddlers began to shake and rattle. The wind from the fan ruffled her feathers and almost took her breath; but, like the boy on the burning deck, she stayed at her post. What her thoughts were when the swift cylinder began to chew up straw cannot be guessed.

When found she was uninjured. There was dust in her mouth and a somewhat frightened look in her eye, but she was on her nest. Of the eggs, all were safe save one.

LOVE'S GRADUATE.

You cannot tell how good she is,
How gracious, and how fair,
By merely looking on her face,
And all the beauty there.

You know not how her lips would speak
To others, or to you;
You only know that all she says
Is certain to be true.

And if she grant you through her eyes
A peep into her soul,
'Tis but a slight and partial glimpse;
You never see the whole.

No! You must win her constant heart,
And keep it in your own,
Ere you can learn that what she is,
She is for one alone.

And that, my friend, you will not do;
A providence divine
Has found and fashion'd her for me,
And she is wholly mine.

—Arthur Munby in Spectator.

UNCLE HEZ.

Fun, fast and furious, will be the order of things at the Academy tonight. The adventures of Hezekiah Barnaby, keeper of a country store, is the theme of the laughter-provoking comedy entitled Uncle Hez. The auditor follows him from Barnesville, his home, to New York and Coney Island, where he meets with all sorts of people. His originality wins for him friends and his determination and nerve confounds his enemies. Each act is replete with brilliant climaxes and stirring events which keep the audience on tip-toe of expectation. In Act 3 Uncle Hez meets a series of unusual mishaps which flurry him not a little. Though he comes out victor and wields the deadly axe with terrific force. The dance at the end of Act 3 is a novelty in itself and never fails to bring forth laughter and applause. A feature of the performance will be the handsome dresses worn by the ladies of the company. Bright musical numbers and clever specialties will be introduced. Prices 15, 25 and 35 cents.

Remember the ladies' bargain tickets only admit tonight.

RHEUMATISM—CATARRH—DISEASES CURED BY B. B. B.

It is the deep-seated, obstinate cases of catarrh and rheumatism that B. B B. (Botanic Blood Balm) cures. It matters not what other treatments doctors, sprays, liniments, medicated air blood purifiers, have failed to do, B. B. B. always promptly reaches the real cause and roots out and drives from the bones, joints, mucuous membrane, and entire system the specific poison in the blood that causes rheumatism and catarrh. B. B. B. is the only remedy strong enough to do this and cure ond so there can never be a return to the symptoms. Don't give up hope, but try B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) or 3 Bs.

For sale by druggists and Howard Gardner, in Greensboro, at $1 per large bottle, or 6 large bottles (full treatment) $5. To prove our faith in B. B B. we will send a trial bottle free to sufferers, so they may test the remedy at our expense. Address Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga.

No More Bodies Recovered.

San Francisco, Feb. 25—No more bodies of the victims of the city of Rio de Janeiro have been discovered. It is not expected that any will rise to the surface before next Thursday or Friday. The spot where the vessel is supposed to lie in the sea is six fathoms of water, twice the depth at which divers can work. It is thought by expert wrekers that the bodies that went down with the wreck never will be recovered.

AN ANCIENT BELIEF.

The ancients believed that rheumatism was the work of a demon within a man. Any one who has had an attack of siatic or inflammatory rheumatism will agree that the affliction is demoniac enough to warrant the belief. It has never been claimed that Chamberlain's Pain Balm would cast out demons, but it will cure rheumatism, and hundreds bear testimony to the truth of this statement. One application relieves the pain, and this quick relief which it affords is alone worth many times its cost. For sale by C. E. Holton, Druggist.

WE sell a 3-lb package of the very best prepared buckwheat for 15 cents. Hiatt & Lamb. 1t

The claim of other cough medicines to be as good as Chamberlain's are effectually set at rest in the following testimonial of Mr. C. D. Glass, an employe of Bartlett & Dennis Co., Gardiner, Me. He says: "I had kept adding to a cold and cough in the winter of 1897, trying every cough medicine I heard of without permanent help, until one day I was in the store of Mr. Houlehan and he advised me to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and offered to pay back my money if I was not cured. My lungs and bronchial tubes were very sore at this time, but I was completely cured by this remedy, and have since always turned to it when I got a cold, and soon find relief. I also recommend it to my friends and am glad to say it is the best of all cough medicines." For sale by C. E. Holton.

For the weakness and prostration following grippe there is nothing so prompt and effective as One Minute Cough Cure. This preparation is highly endorsed as an unfailing remedy for all throat and lung troubles and its early use prevents consumption. It was made to cure quickly.

Pitawitan's Nightmare

By Katherine Yates.

"If one apple costs two cents, what will six apples cost? Let me see; if one apple costs two cents, six apples will cost six times two, which is—which is—oh, dear! I always get just so far, and then I can never do the rest," and a very large frown puckered Dorothy's forehead until it looked like the crinkly pink liberty silk on her own Sunday hat. Then she tipped back in the big rocking-chair in the bay window, where she, an arithmetic and a tablet had been having a sort of wrestle, and, making a fine, large paper wad, she threw it at Pitawitan, the canary, who hung in a gilt cage in the window. Pitawitan did not even dodge, but only craned his yellow neck a little, eying the bit of paper with beady black eyes, and then began to trill pretty little notes and whistles, finally breaking into such a volume of song as threatened to burst his little throat.

Dorothy looked ashamed and turned back to her arithmetic. "If one apple costs two cents—"

"Cheap, cheap," called the canary.

Dorothy laughed. "Of course they are cheap, Pitawitan."

"Well, didn't I say so?" answered Pitawitan.

Dorothy pursed up her lips. "Oh, you needn't expect me to be surprised to hear you speak, for if Pusskins and the Guinea pig talk, I suppose that there is no reason why you should not. I have been expecting it for some time."

"Glad it didn't give you a shock," said Pitawitan, sarcastically.

"And it's funny," went on Dorothy in an aggrieved tone, "that you furry and feathery folk are so good-natured until you begin to talk, and then you are as cross and snippy and ill tempered as can be. Here you have been singing as happy as anything all morning, and now—"

"Singing! Who said I was singing? Who said I was happy?"

"Why, I heard you singing my own self," exclaimed Dorothy, "just as cheerful and jolly even after I threw that paper wad at you."

"Singing!" repeated Pitawitan again disdainfully. "Singing! Do you call that singing, when I was just sitting here telling you what an ugly, disagreeable, ill-natured girl you are to throw things at me, merely because you couldn't get your lesson? You call that singing, do you?"

Dorothy looked disturbed. "Were you really talking to me like that? Why, I thought that you were always happy when you were singing."

"It is not singing, I tell you," cried Pitawitan, angrily; "it is just talking, and a lot of good it does to talk to folk in this house, too."

"Why!" exclaimed Dorothy, indignantly; "I think that you have a lovely home. I'm sure I'd like to live just the same way; in a beautiful gold house hung on a spring, so that it sways all the time just like a hammock; no lessons to get, and lovely things to eat; there's a big lump of sugar in your cage all the time, and that is just the same as if I had a chocolate drop twice as big as my head to nibble whenever I chose. I've seen them as large as that and always just longed for one. And then there is your seed; that's just the same as nuts—walnuts and pecans—and then there's cuttle fish, and that's just the same as—as—well, we'll call that bread; and then there's always fresh fruit, and water, and a lovely glass bathtub, and a swing where you can swing whenever you wish—oh, I'd just love to live in a place like that—and no lessons at all," she added again.

Pitawitan looked disgusted as well as he could. "Oh, yes, a lovely life!" he exclaimed. "And how would you feel if folk sometimes forgot to give you food all day?"

"But there's the sugar," said Dorothy.

"Well, how would you like to have nothing but chocolate drops to eat for a day at a time, and not a drop of fresh water, when they made you so thirsty that you were fairly choked? And then suppose that when you began calling for some one to bring you food because you were nearly starved, folks would say: 'Do just listen to that dear little bird sing. Isn't he quite the happiest little fellow that you ever saw?' And then when you grow desperate and screech so loud that you nearly split your throat some one says: 'Bless his jolly little heart; hasn't he the most joyous song? But it is just a trifle too shrill. Marie, will you please throw a towel over Pitawitan's cage; he is a little too noisy.' How would you like that?"

Dorothy looked grave. "But, Pitawitan, how are we to know what you are asking for, when we can't understand what you say?"

"Merely by coming to see what I need. But, anyway, how would you like to be shut up in a prison the whole time, even if it were a gold one? It isn't much fun, I can tell you; and I think that you must see me free in your room for a few minutes once in awhile, just to try my wings and get a little exercise."

"Why, I never thought of that!" exclaimed Dorothy.

"Never thought of it! When I have coaxed and begged and pleaded on my bended knees! I'm sure—"

"But," interrupted Dorothy, "I never saw you get down on your knees. I didn't know that you had any."

"No?" sneered Pitawitan. "Well, I have, even if you didn't know it. Just because they bend backward instead of forward you didn't give them credit for being knees, but I can assure you they are a lot more comfortably arranged that way, and it don't wear off the toes of your new shoes when you kneel down, either."

Poor Dorothy felt discouraged with the conversation and was about to return to her arithmetic, but decided to try once more to turn the talk into pleasanter channels, so she said presently:

"Oh, by the way, Pitawitan, how did you happen to come to this country? You were not born here, were you?"

"No," said Pitawitan; "I came on a nightmare."

"On a what?" exclaimed Dorothy.

"On a nightmare. Didn't you ever hear of a nightmare?"

"Why, of course, I've heard of them. But how could you come here on one, when it is only a bad dream?"

"Well, I did, anyway; and I've got it yet. I'll tell you about it.

"I was born on an island far, far away, and for some months I lived very happily with my father and mother and brothers; and in those days I really did sing. One afternoon while I was still quite young my eldest brother found a large piece of rich fruit cake by the roadside and called us all to come and share it. It was the most delicious thing that I had ever eaten, and I am afraid that I made a regular little pig of myself in my greediness. My mother warned me to eat lightly of such rich food, but I would not heed her, even when she said at last:

"'If you eat any more of that you will certainly have a nightmare.'

"'What is a nightmare, mother?' I asked, for I had at that time never heard of one.

"'Why, it is a dreadful dream,' she answered me. 'Perhaps you will dream that wicked men catch you and carry you away, away off, and shut you up in a cage and keep you there, hungry and lonely.'

"However, I only laughed and said that I was not afraid of any dream, and went on eating.

"Well, when I crept into the nest that night I had a headache and felt heavy and miserable and wished that I had taken mother's advice.

"During the first part of the night I did not sleep well, and kept waking in a fright, but at last I went to sleep soundly and dreamed this dream:

"I thought that I had slept all night, and when I awoke in the morning the sun was just beginning to show above the horizon. I hopped out of the nest with my little brothers and flew down to the spring for a fresh drink and a bath, and then out to the meadow to pick up a breakfast. As we fluttered about, picking seeds from the grass heads or picking at strawberries, I flew to a low bush to rest for a moment; but when I would have flown down again I felt my feet held fast by some sticky substance, and I called to my brothers to come quickly and help me. They came at once, but, alas! no sooner did they alight upon the bush their feet also stuck fast, and, although we fluttered and screamed, it was all to no purpose.

"And then suddenly I saw coming toward us two rough-looking men carrying wooden cages, and I thought at once of what my mother had said would happen if I ate too much of the fruit cake, and I knew that this was a nightmare. I struggled and fluttered and shrieked, in the hope of waking up, but I could not; and one of the cruel men took hold of me roughly, and as he loosened my poor little feet said, carelessly, to his companion:

"'We made this birdlime a bit too stiff this time. It's liable to injure their feet.' And then he put me into a little wooden cage and did the same to my brothers, although of course I knew that they were not really suffering, since this was only a nightmare of my own; but I screamed and called to them just the same.

"They took us to a town near by, tied many cages together and packed them on a boat which carried us across the water, while I sat quietly in my cage and mourned and longed to wake up.

"Well, when we had reached land once more we were packed on a train—oh, I was so frightened—and brought many, many miles to this great city. I never spoke or cried. I would scarcely eat or drink, I was so weary and lonely and heartsick. I was taken to a store where were many birds of all kinds, and there at last I found my voice again, for we all began to tell each other our troubles and our misery in being kept in cages as prisoners, and our fear of the future, and everyone who came in exclaimed:

"'How beautifully and joyously these birds all sing! One would not think that they could be so happy in those tiny cages.'

"Then one day your mother came looking for a bird for your birthday gift, and she choose me because of my particularly brilliant color—and—here I am." Pitawitan stopped and stood mournfully on one foot.

Dorothy looked puzzled. "But, Pitawitan, you said it was a dream, a nightmare. When did you wake up?"

"I didn't wake up," said Pitawitan.

"But you are not asleep now," argued Dorothy.

"Yes, I am. This is all my nightmare—the cage and you and everything."

"It isn't so!" cried Dorothy. "I am a real girl! I am not just a part of your old dream."

"Yes, you are, too," said Pitawitan, emphatically. "I say you are, and it is only a nightmare, for that is what my mother said, and I guess she knows."

Dorothy jumped up with flashing eyes. "I'm not a dream girl—I don't care what your mother says. I'm just as real as you are, so there!"

Pitawitan's eyes flashed back. "Well, you'll see," he cried, angrily. "You are nothing but a horrid, ugly little dream girl; and just you wait until I wake up. Where will you be then?"

And then one of them did wake up. I wonder which it was.—Chicago Daily Record.

WINE OF CARDUI

How a Woman Suffers.

HOWELL, IND., Nov. 26.

I will always praise Wine of Cardui. It has done me more good than all the medicines I have ever taken in my life. Please send a book about female diseases to the ladies whose names I enclose.

Mrs. MINNIE STODGHILL.

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

It isn't necessary for a woman to give particulars. When she says she has "female troubles", other women know what that means. It means days and nights of endless suffering. It means headaches which no tongue can describe. It means that terrible bearing and dragging down in the lower abdomen. It means agonizing backache, and shoulder ache, and arm ache, and aches in the lower limbs. It means nerves on edge—the blues— despondency and loss of hope. It means debilitating drains that the doctors call leucorrhœa. It means martyrdom—sometimes even death seems preferable. And still Wine of Cardui will utterly put those diseases and pains to rout. It has cured thousands of cases when nothing else on earth would. To the budding woman, to the bride, to the wife, to the expectant mother, to those going through the Change of Life, this Vegetable Wine is a blessing.

BABY'S BUSINESS

A healthy baby is comfortable; and that is enough for a baby. His business in life is to grow.

Aside from acute diseases, his food is the cause of most of his troubles. But Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil delivers him from it.

He isn't sick; only a little hitch, somewhere, in his machine for turning food into growth.

It is a great thing to do, for a baby, to help him over a hitch with mere food—the emulsion is food that has the tact to get there.

The tact to get there is medicine.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.

A new remedy for billiousness is now on sale at C. E. Holton's drug store. It is called Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. It gives quick relief and will prevent the attack if given as soon as the first indication of the disease appears. Price, 25 cents per box. Samples free.

Scrofula

THE OFFSPRING OF HEREDITARY BLOOD TAINT.

Scrofula is but a modified form of Blood Poison and Consumption. The parent who is tainted by either will see in the child the same disease manifesting itself in the form of swollen glands of the neck and throat, catarrh, weak eyes, offensive sores and abscesses and oftentimes white swelling—sure signs of Scrofula. There may be no external signs for a long time, for the disease develops slowly in some cases, but the poison is in the blood and will break out at the first favorable opportunity. S. S. S. cures this wasting, destructive disease by first purifying and building up the blood and stimulating and invigorating the whole system.

J. M. Seals, 115 Public Square, Nashville, Tenn., says: "Ten years ago my daughter fell and cut her forehead. From this wound the glands on the side of her face became swollen and bursted. Some of the best doctors here and elsewhere attended her without any benefit. We decided to try S. S. S., and a few bottles cured her entirely."

SSS makes new and pure blood to nourish and strengthen the body, and is a positive and safe cure for Scrofula. It overcomes all forms of blood poison, whether inherited or acquired, and no remedy so thoroughly and effectively cleanses the blood. If you have any blood trouble, or your child has inherited some blood taint, take S. S. S. and get the blood in good condition and prevent the disease doing further damage.

Send for our free book and write our physicians about your case. We make no charge whatever for medical advice.
